Journal of Commerce Quotes Benesch Partner Marc Blubaugh on Managing Trucking Regulatory Risk

FEBRUARY 26, 2026

Benesch Co-Chair of the Transportation & Logistics Practice Group Marc Blubaugh was quoted in S&P Global's Journal of Commerce article, "Truckload shippers look to minimize growing regulatory risks," which examines how shippers are addressing increased regulatory and operational exposure as they negotiate 2026 truckload contracts. Truckload shippers look to mini…

Blubaugh noted that his clients generally fall into two camps: those who prefer to address concerns through direct discussions with carriers, and those who want to build more specific compliance language into their contracts. As he explained, "There's an over-drafting camp…" that seeks to expressly call out key issues in the contract's compliance section, while others believe additional language isn't necessary beyond a conversation because brokers and carriers already agree to comply with U.S. laws and regulations in standard agreements.
