Ropes & Gray held a “Legal Bootcamp” throughout July in partnership with BUILD (Broader Urban Involvement & Leadership Development), one of Chicago’s leading gang intervention, violence prevention, and youth development organizations, the firm said in a news release.

Five high school and college-age students — with no prior experience in the legal industry — took part in the three-week pilot program. Attorneys from the firm created the curriculum designed to highlight multiple jobs in the legal industry.

Ropes & Gray partner Tim Farrell spearheaded the program. Other members of the firm’s Chicago office who took part in the event include associates Deanna Foster, Philip Ehrlich, Annie Monjar, Annemarie Smith-Morris, Jack Wolf, Will Spelder and Krista Evensen; asset management associates Elizabeth Madsen and Tim Parrington; private capital transactions associate Raxit Shah; paralegal Nate Wolack; summer associates Kris Kenn, Phil Paradise, Divya Gulati, Megan Lenz, and Kathy Jara; legal services manager Mikeisha Walker; events specialist Chris Larsen; and legal executive assistant Ana Gomez; and Ropes & Gray alumni Sarah Kimmer.

Benesch associate Helen M. Schweitz presented a session during the 2021 Trucking Legal Forum on July 27.

Schweitz’s session titled “Technology and Data Privacy Implications for Independent Contractor Relationships” delved into current issues facing the transportation industry, such as technology, regulation, and independent contractor issues. It also explored the intersection of technology and independent contractor relationships to identify new areas of risk and best practices for deployment of cutting-edge technology across independent contractor fleets.
