

2023 CONSTRUCTION LAW SEMINARS

Benesch's Construction Law Practice Group offers a variety of seminars to members of the construction industry. Presentations are typically made at industry conferences and chapter meetings as well as internally to clients at annual corporate meetings, project management or safety meetings, both in person and via web conferencing. Customized programs can be developed to meet your particular training and educational needs and specifications.

1. Construction Law: Beyond the Letter of Your Contract—Effectively Playing the Claims Game Through the Use of State and Federal Statutes and Judicial Precedent

The construction claims process is a complicated exercise where superior internal legal knowledge often rules the day and can help you to avoid protracted litigation. This seminar will allow you to counter contractual provisions that may otherwise bar a valid claim such as notice clauses, no-damage-for-delay clauses, pay-if-paid clauses and pay-when-paid clauses during contract negotiation and during the claims process.

2. Managing Today's Risk Through Active Contract Administration

Many times an opportunity to make a profit on a construction project is unknowingly squandered prior to any work being performed. Errors committed during the often overlooked contract proposal and negotiation portions of a construction project can prove to be quite costly. In order to avoid these problems, it is essential for parties to understand when and how a contract is formed, recognize the risks of proposed contract provisions, and learn how such provisions can be negotiated, accommodated and overcome. Specific topics include: (1) notice clauses; (2) no-damage-for-delay clauses; (3) pay-if-paid and pay-when-paid clauses; (4) liquidated and consequential damages clauses; (5) indemnification provisions; (6) unforeseen conditions clauses; (7) force majeure clauses; (8) Miller Act claim waivers; (9) schedule clauses; (10) contract termination; and (11) venue/forum selection clauses. This seminar provides an effective management tool to train your company to perform its work with minimum risk and allow you to identify, prepare, negotiate and/or avoid critical contract provisions that can serve to eliminate your ability to make a profit or bring claims.

3. Properly Documenting a Construction Project and Controlling Internal Documentation

This seminar shares valuable information concerning best practices for project document creation and maintenance with an eye toward possible litigation. This seminar will help your company develop internal policies concerning the proper creation of contemporaneous project communications. Important ideas will be provided to help you maintain your project records in a way that will help you to expeditiously advocate your position. Means to allow your standard forms to be functional, uniform and effective, ranging from emails, correspondence, daily logs, notices and schedules, and demand letters, all while controlling today's technology, will be discussed. This seminar is designed to help your company formulate the ultimate uniform recordkeeping system that can be utilized for real purposes.

4. Ten Steps to Success in 2023

As experienced construction lawyers, we regularly observe construction participants make critical but avoidable mistakes that significantly impact project success and profitability. This seminar will practically educate attendees on how to avoid some of the more common legal and business errors that have been made on projects in recent years while improving their daily operations.

5. Recovering for Unforeseen Conditions

Especially valuable for those working below ground, this seminar thoroughly discusses the Spearin Doctrine and the ability to recover for unforeseen conditions. This seminar addresses recovery for all work that you may be required to perform that goes behind the letter of the project's contract documents.

6. Enforcing Your Right to Payment—Everything You Need to Know About Liens, Surety Bond Claims and Prompt Payment Acts

Courts have recognized since the 1800s that getting paid is half the battle in the construction industry. This seminar will help you win the payment battle through the proper use of demand letters, liens, payment bond claims, state prompt payment acts, contract terms and conditions, key judicial decisions, and other legal remedies available to secure payment.

7. Construction Project Management—How to Avoid Problems, Claims and Disputes

This seminar provides an informative overview of various techniques that project personnel can use to resolve issues as they arise and minimize the likelihood of litigation at the end of a project.

8. New York and New Jersey Construction Law Primer

Need to know more about construction law in New York and/or New Jersey? This seminar will provide you with the basics, and more, of construction law in one or both of these states.

9. Tips and Traps for Subcontractors

Subcontractors take on unique forms of risk and, if they are not careful, may find themselves with the fewest remedies of any construction participant. This seminar highlights the risks subcontractors should watch out for, suggested revisions to subcontracts to protect subcontractors against those risks, and offers tips for bidding on and completing a successful project.

10. Legal Developments in 2022 that Will Make You More Profitable in 2023

Construction law is constantly evolving. In order to protect and assert your rights you need to be aware of certain developments. Learn about new judicial decisions throughout the United States, or in a particular region or state, and how it might impact your ability to maximize your recovery for damages incurred on a project. An update on legislative developments where appropriate is also provided in this seminar.

11. Key Legal Considerations when Performing Work under a Design-Build Construction Contract

This seminar discusses the keys to gaining strength of position in the negotiation of a design-build contract and the types of claims for unforeseen conditions that can and cannot be made under a design-build contract.
