Global supply chains are under siege-tariffs, trade restrictions, and foreign conflicts are disrupting everything from sourcing materials to overseas manufacturing and international sales. For businesses operating across borders, the stakes have never been higher: delays, skyrocketing costs, and ever-changing compliance risks threaten operations daily.

In this fast-moving session, experts will break down the latest geopolitical risks and supply chain disruptions of 2025-and, more importantly, what your clients need to do to stay ahead. Learn how to mitigate risk, maintain compliance with export controls and sanctions, and develop proactive legal strategies to keep supply chains resilient in an unpredictable world. If your clients are global, this session is essential.
