Benesch is proud to announce that the firm has advanced 11 places on the 2026 Am Law 200 list, rising from #127 in 2025 to #116.

Since first appearing on the Am Law 200 in 2017 (FY 2016), Benesch has climbed an impressive 79 places in just nine years. This year's ranking reflects the firm's sustained upward momentum, including a 19.7% increase in gross revenue over the previous year. The firm's continued advancement is fueled by strategic national expansion into key markets, a proven lateral-driven growth strategy and a deliberate investment in client service.

Widely regarded as one of the legal industry's most respected benchmarks, the Am Law 200 ranks the second hundred largest U.S. law firms by gross revenue. The report provides detailed analysis of firm performance including revenue, profits, headcount growth and per-lawyer metrics.

"This year's recognition on the 2026 Am Law 200 is a meaningful milestone for Benesch," said Managing Partner Gregg Eisenberg. "It reflects the strength of our growth strategy, the caliber of talent we continue to attract and retain, and the enduring trust our clients place in us. By focusing on what truly differentiates our firm and making deliberate investments in our people, practices and markets, we are building a platform designed for lasting success."

Benesch continues to distinguish itself as one of the nation's fastest-growing business law firms, with a rapidly expanding footprint in key markets including Chicago, San Francisco and New York. With remarkable success in attracting top-tier talent, primarily from BigLaw, the firm has grown its bench to approximately 500 attorneys nationwide.
