Benesch Partner Kevin Frankel Quoted in POLITICO Pro on State Attorneys General's Role in Energy and Climate Policy

NOVEMBER 5, 2026

POLITICO Pro Morning Environment recently quoted Kevin Frankel, a partner at Benesch and lead of the firm's State Attorneys General Practice Group, in its newsletter examining how the 2026 elections could reshape environmental and energy policy. The piece looks at changes in state attorneys general offices across the country and how those shifts could affect challenges involving climate and energy initiatives.

With several state attorney general offices potentially changing hands following the elections, POLITICO Pro examines how the makeup of state AG coalitions could shift on climate and energy matters.

"State attorneys general will remain central to energy and climate policy no matter which party holds the office," Frankel said. "What will change is which states are at the table, and on which side."
