

Benesch Real Estate Partner Adam Saurwein Selected as Fellow of the American College to Mortgage Attorneys

FEBRUARY 26, 2026

Benesch is pleased to announce that Adam Saurwein, Partner in the firm's Real Estate Practice Group, has been selected as a Fellow of the American College of Mortgage Attorneys (ACMA).

Adam is among 19 attorneys approved for membership by the ACMA Membership Committee on January 29th. The newest class of Fellows includes attorneys from across the United States and Canada, representing both private practice and in-house counsel. Members hail from the District of Columbia, 11 U.S. states spanning the South, Southwest, Midwest and Western regions, and the Canadian provinces of British Columbia and Ontario.

The American College of Mortgage Attorneys is a professional association comprised of leading practitioners in commercial real estate finance law. Fellowship in ACMA is extended by invitation following a rigorous nomination and approval process and reflects demonstrated excellence, leadership and experience in mortgage and real estate finance law.

Adam Saurwein is a leading real estate attorney with a comprehensive national real estate practice that has an emphasis on sophisticated commercial real estate transactions, such as acquisitions, dispositions, redevelopment, investment, property management, and finance across multiple asset classes. He advises clients on all aspects of the capital stack, including complex joint ventures, general and limited partnerships, construction financing, and mezzanine financing transactions. Adam routinely represents lenders, borrowers, private equity funds, developers and investors in navigating intricate debt and equity finance structures within real estate deals, providing strategic counsel to help clients respond to evolving market conditions and achieve successful outcomes in high-value transactions.
