Jonathan Todd Interviewed on Scripps News About Supreme Court Tariff Ruling and Supply Chain Impact

FEBRUARY 20, 2026

Benesch Transportation & Logistics Vice Chair Jonathan Todd was interviewed on Scripps News about the Supreme Court's ruling striking down tariffs imposed under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act and the resulting uncertainty surrounding refunds, future tariff authority and the broader impact on manufacturers and global supply chains.

In the segment, Jonathan explained that the Supreme Court's ruling is historic because it invalidates tariffs imposed under the IEEPA, meaning those specific tariffs can no longer be enforced. He noted that businesses are closely watching whether they will need to continue paying those tariffs and whether refunds may be issued but emphasized that there is still significant uncertainty about how that process will unfold and what new tariffs could be imposed under different legal authority. He added that the path forward will depend on decisions by the Court of International Trade and U.S. Customs, advising companies to remain compliant and focused on managing supply chain challenges amid continued volatility.
