

MEDIA MENTIONS

Supply Chain Dive Quotes Benesch Partner Jonathan Todd on Trump's Executive Order on Tariffs

JANUARY 30, 2025

Benesch Partner Jonathan Todd was quoted in a recent Supply Chain Dive article, "5 questions about Trump's tariff plans" The piece discusses President Trump's latest executive order regarding tariffs, and Todd provides expert analysis on the potential legal and economic implications of these changes. His insights offer valuable perspective on how companies can navigate the evolving landscape of trade policy.

An executive order can be overturned by Congress, per the American Bar Association. Tariffs implemented by an order could also face legal challenges, most likely from affected U.S. importers, said Jonathan Todd, vice-chair of the transportation and logistics practice group at law firm Benesch Friedlander Coplan & Aronoff. However, companies that seek relief via judicial means would face an uphill battle.

To read the full article, click here: Supply Chain Dive Article.